"I'm short on time and this part's a pain to draw. Could you take it on, Mikio?" That's what Kishimoto-san used to say to me a lot while drawing Naruto. In the beginning, it would be a background character, people sitting in spectator seats, the bad guy's gaggle of minions and so on. At times, he would say, "You're the only one I can trust with this," and I would also get to draw Naruto's shadow doppelgangers, or even a large-sized main character that wasn't a doppelganger. And then, one day, circumstances led to me being entrusted with an entire manga. An honor that is more than I deserve!

I've loved ninja since I was a kid, and I had been creating lots of tabletop RPGs (RPGs that don't involve computers) with ninja characters when I was tapped to help with the Boruto film and the Naruto novel series world building, which then led to getting entrusted with the script of the main story.

I am very happy to be able to deliver to all of you readers the many ideas and stories that Kishimoto Sensei has bequeathed to me. Thank you in advance!
